Business Development Services

Having local knowledge and the right contacts are key to success in overseas markets. Through NHHA, you have access to a network of experts and advisors in the major markets of Asia. All with a proven track record of assisting companies succeed in the region; the network is well positioned to provide direct links to key representatives in both the public and private sectors of your target market.

The NHHA network provides business consulting services within Asia, utilizing their expertise in the fields of product sourcing, project management, partner and channel development. By combining locally based business development services with virtual office and communications services throughout Asia, NHHA can provide your company with an affordable and effective virtual presence in Asia.

The NHHA portfolio includes all of the services required to assist its clients through the complete business cycle; from establishing new operations, guiding and advising through legal and commercial issues, support with initial marketing and sales activities, to introducing corporate product or service quality branding in the target market. Our practical approach supports our clients from initial market entry to operating as independent and successful companies, or from project kick-off to final solution acceptance.
